From: The Boston Globe
To: Michael F. Glavin
Subject: Business Headlines: So much for the Massachusetts miracle
Date: Thursday, September 13, 2018 6:01:01 AM

Thursday, September 13, 2018 View web version

The Boston Globe

Business Headlines

This morning's top stories

So much for the Massachusetts miracle

A broad and detailed survey shows that the state trailed the rest of the nation in 2017 when it comes to middle-class income growth, poverty reduction, and the expansion of health insurance coverage. Continue reading →

Video shows Weinstein caressing woman before alleged rape

A video of Harvey Weinstein caressing and propositioning a woman who accused him of rape aired on television Wednesday. Continue reading →

Houghton Mifflin Harcourt selling Riverside test business

Ten stories you may have missed Wednesday from the world of business. Continue reading →

Hotel workers authorize strike

Unite Here Local 26 union members took a strike authorization vote Wednesday against Marriott, the largest hotel chain in Boston. Continue reading →

Some McDonald's workers vote to strike over sex harassment

Emboldened by the #MeToo movement, McDonald's workers have voted to stage a one-day strike next week at restaurants in 10 cities in hopes of pressuring management to take stronger steps against on-the-job sexual harassment. Continue reading →

Google, Facebook dealt blow by EU lawmakers on copyright

The European Parliament voted Wednesday to back copyright rules that would help video, music, and other rights holders seek compensation for use of their content online. Continue reading →

Subscribe to BostonGlobe.com

A big screen and other impressive tweaks to iPhone

With bigger screens, and more powerful processors and sensors, Apple's new generation of phones and watches keeps a firm grip on the high end of the market. Continue reading →

'60 Minutes' producer Jeff Fager is ousted at CBS

Jeff Fager, the longtime executive producer of "60 Minutes" on CBS, was fired on Wednesday for sending a bullying text message to one of the network's reporters. Continue reading →

Tesla's finance team is said to be losing another top executive

Another high-ranking finance executive at Tesla Inc. is leaving the company, according to people familiar with the matter. Continue reading →

Katherine Clark embarks on quest for federal child care subsidies

The Melrose Democrat is pushing legislation that would provide up to $14,000 in tax credits per kid to child care centers, to help defray an income-eligible family's monthly bills. Continue reading →

About This Email

You received this message because you signed up for the Business Headlines newsletter. To automatically unsubscribe, please click here.

Please note: this will unsubscribe you from the newsletter only. If you wish to cancel your BostonGlobe.com subscription, please call 1-888-MY-GLOBE (1-888-694-5623).

Manage Your Account | Terms of Service | Privacy Policy | Help Center | Advertise

Address:
The Boston Globe
1 Exchange Place Suite 201
Boston, MA 02109-2132

©Copyright 2018 Boston Globe Media Partners, LLC